allowance has been made for repairs and depreciation. The shareholders will inevit ably soon have to provide for these contingencies, and then it may prove difficult to declare any dividend at all. It requires little knowledge of China to foretell this, and people in England see plainly the false principles upon which the China Merchants Company are working. Another feature in the report has struck a correspondent of one of our contemporaries, namely, the hostility exrefers doubtless to the statement made therein to the effect that the object of the Company is to "take down the pride" and "scrape off some of the fat" of foreign shipping firms. Certainly this does not read very well, nor is it calculated to give a very favourable N. B. Polishwalla, G. R. Lammert, M. Stephens employed against foreign interests in China There is a great and growing tendency among Chinese officials to dabble in trade, and the profits derived from it are regarded by them with hungry eyes. This policy is encouraged by the Viceroy of Chihli, whose crowning purpose it scens to be knowing that force cannot avail for the purpose-to oust the foreigners entirely from China by commercial rivalry. It is for this reason that he so strongly backs up the China Merchants' Company rather than from any patriotic

So far we have received no corroboration the telegram stating that the left wing of the Russian army in Asia Minor had recrossed the frontier. The fact that the Russians have met with a series of disasters in Armenia renders the report by no means improbable, but as the announcement came from a Turkish source it needs confirmation. The Reuter's telegram published in another column lends colour to the supposition that who deserted on the 29th June last, and has not the Turkish report was somewhat exaggerated. Kars has been relieved, of that there is no doubt, but it is very questionable whether the Russians have been as badly beaten as has been represented. Very little reliance can, if what is stated by Truth be true, be placed on the telegrams inspired by the Turks. From what we can learn of the progress of events in Kinshin, it would appear that the struggle at present is concentrated in Hinra. where the bulk of the Satsuma forces ere sunposed to be situated. It is the intention of the Imperialists to close them in with two bodies one advancing from the north and the other from the south. The floods caused by terrible rains that have prevailed to almost an unprecedented extent in Kiushiu, and the great heat, interfere with all the plans of the army. The condition of the troops in Kagoshima is said to be lamentable, and in Tôkiô it is currently reported that a s probably a virulent form of typhus, which to ether with dysentery has been making sad havec among the troops since the commencement of the hot weather. The latest native advices state that Saigo, at the head of 500 of his body guards and 2,000 fresh troops, has left Mivakono jo for Shigeoka in Bungo: General Murata has left for Yoshino with the insurgent forces that were stationed at Kajiki, Hamanoichi, and Kokubu. Kirino with sixteen companies has gone toward Mamihara. It would thus appear that one body of the Satsuma forces are again roing to endeavour to force their way into Bungo from Nobeoka, while another will advance from Coshing to Tchiki, and cutting off the Imperialists

It has frequently been stated that many of those who were induced to enlist as policemen and were afterwards shipped, off to the South; on finding that they had been tricked, refused to remain and fight. A late butch of three hundred men, recruited in the province of Shonai, did not allow deception to be carried so far. for finding on their arrival in Tokio that they were to be sent immediately to Kiushiu they calmly refused to go, stating that they had been enrolled as Tokio police, and not to not as troops then stealing three jackets and a pair trowsers in the South. The year's consumption of sugar per head the population in Germany has increased from lbs. to more than 15 lbs. within the last ten This is still for below the consumption in England, which is at the rate of 48 lbs. head per annum. A curious contrast in relative uses of ea and coffee is noted in the two countries, the German requiring 4.55 lbs, of coffee and 0.05 lbs, of tea, while the Englishman consumes 3.74 lbs. of the latter, and only 0.89 lbs. of coffee in the year. The German smokes 3.841bs. of tobacco as against 1.35 lb., with which John Bull is satisfied; but the amount contributed by each in the shape of duty is strangely disproper tionate, the former paying a fraction over 4d. per head of the population, while the Briton's quota reaches 3s. 9d yearly. The duty paid by each Austrian on the fragrant weed is about 2s.; Italians contribute at the rate of 2s. 3d. per head and the Frenchman pays dearest of all for his pipe or eigar, his share of taxation under this heading amounting to a tride over 5s, yearly,

EXTRAORDINARY DANCING PILGRIMAGE.

The Brussels correspondent of the Globe, writing on the 27th says:—Echternach, a small town on the German frontier of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg at short distance from Treves, has from time immemorial been famous for one of the most extraordinary spectacles that religious d device or imporent familiaism nerpetuate. On Whit-Tuesday immense crowds assemble from far and near to take part in the dancing procession to the tomb of St. Willibrord, the first bishop and the patron of Echternach which owes its origin to the abbey he founded round which first a few scattered houses, then the town itself arose. An hour's delightful ride in an early train brought me by about seven o'clock to the station of Echternach. As eight o'clock ap proached the crowd gathered round the parish church, situated on an elevation, reached by sixtyfour steps from the main street. From thence as the clock struck, and bells began to toll, the clergy, about forty in number, preceded by banners, issued forth, singing the "Veni Creator," and proceeded across the bridge on the Sauer to a plain where a temporary pulpit had been erected. There the cure preached in German a sermon, in which he related the life and missionary work of the great saint, a fellow-countryman of our own, who, educated in the once famous monastery of Ripon, and afterwards in the abbey of Rathmelsing in Ireland, left England in 687 to attempt the conversion of the Frisons. Referring to the ceremony of the day, he insisted on the neces sity for its being performed not as a mere outward act, but as the expression of feelings in harmony with it; and he concluded with an exhortation to abstain from joining in the revelry and dissipation which habitually succeed the devout exercises of the morning. The clergy then returned to the bridge, where the procession formed, and they were followed all round the town, first, by several hundred men, walking two by two, singing the litany of St. Willibrord, and then by all the boys, and after them the girls of Echternach, from the age of 10 to 14, dancing three steps forwards and one backwards, or five steps forwards and three backwards, most if not all of whom are hired to dance for the benefit of others. An endless crowd of men, women, and children follow them, holding | FIHE astick orumbrella or pocket handkerchief between them, five or six or more deep, dancing or hopping to a jig tune played by numerous bands wind instruments, or by drums and fifes, which at intervals form part of the procession At first the sight is inexpressibly absurdrapid succession of people dancing like maniacs. is most laughable—but as the eye becomes ac-

From a neighbouring estaminet comes a charitable soul-he is a publican with a flask of wine and a glass and offers them most welcome refreshment, thanks to which they are enabled to accomplish their task. Hundreds of such scenes are to be witnessed; they drive the half-formed smile from the lips, for they tel of bitter anguish, of oft disappointed hopes and of admirable self-devotion. One feets a wish to hear their story, to offer them whatever assistance it is in one's power to give, to comfort them with some words of human sympathy, and to tell them of some more intelligent mode than dancing for an hour or more three steps forwards and two backwards of approaching the Giver of every good gift. Sometimes, I was told, an epileptic patient falls down in a fit, and lies on the stones till some compassionate spectator brings a bucket of cold water to throw over him. They generally go through their work in a business-like manner and are not too proud to avail themselves of the breathing-time provided by a break in the jigtune. Some young girls seem to be enjoying whatever latent fun there may be in the exer cise. The procession began at nine and it is about one before it comes to an end. As well as can calculate from watching them pass, about 15,000 men, women, and children took part in it all belonging to the humbler classes, except two ladies fashionably dressed, who merely walked along, evading the difficulty of dancing with their high-heeled boots, though perhaps they did not like to exhibit themselves before a party of strangers, among whom might be some they

this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both

A FOOLISH FASHION. "Scotus" writes to the Globe I ventu is gradually spreading downwards into t main body of Society. I refer to the rid culous and immoderate use of the two sma words "too" and "quite." I hear my lac A ___ at dinner pronounce an entrée as " to excellent," and on the other side a your lady declares her cousin's dress to be qui too lovely." Ainsi de suite: Even as T wri a letter is put into my hand, in which I fir that a lady friend of mine is "really to much obliged" for a wedding present which I had sent her. (Am I to understand the the intensity of her obligation is too great I could cite scores of examples of this kinbut will only give one more, to which I wa treated last week.
